FEDERAL PERSONNEL IN THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH, FEBRUARY 1948, AND COMPARISON WITH JANUARY 1948

(The following report is compiled from signed, official personnel reports by the various agencies and departments of the Federal Government. Table I of the report shows personnel employed inside continental United States, by agency. Table II shows personnel employed outside continental United States, by agency. Table III shows total personnel employed inside and outside continental United States, by agency. Table IV gives by agency the industrial workers employed by the Federal Government. For purposes of comparison, figures for the previous month are shown in adjoining columns.)

SPECIAL MILITARY ESTABLISHMENT TABLE

Table V, which has been added to this report in view of recent military recommendations, shows that the National Military Establishment was employing in February 1948 three times as many civilians per man in uniform as it employed at its wartime peak in 1945.

Prior to current revitalization of the Nation's armed might, the combined armed forces of the United States in February 1948 were employing 8 civilians to every 14 men in uniform, as compared with 2 civilians for every 12 men in uniform in June 1945.

In February the Department of the Army and the Air Forces combined employed nearly five civilians to every nine men in uniform; as compared with nearly two civilians to every eight men in uniform in June of 1945.

The Department of the Navy was employing more than three civilians for each five men in uniform in February 1948, as compared with one civilian to every five men in uniform in June of 1945.

Of the net decrease of 1,797,388 civilian employees between June of 1945 and February of 1948, 869,154 were so-called industrial employees and 928,234 were classified employees.

According to monthly personnel reports submitted to the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures, the total Federal personnel for February increased 11,932 from the January total of 2,000,511 to the February total of 2,012,443. (See table III.)

Exclusive of the National Military Establishment, there was an increase of 9,618 from the January total of 1,166,135 to the February total of 1,175,753.

Total employment for the National Military Establishment showed an increase of 2,314 from the January total of 834,376 to the February total of 836,690.

The Department of the Army reported an increase of 819 from its January total of 381,385 civilian employees. Inside continental United States the Army increased its civilian personnel 1,720, while outside continental United States personnel decreased 901.

The Department of the Air Forces increased civilian employment 903 from its January figure of 112,777 to the February figure of 113,680. These figures cover Air Forces civilian personnel within continental United States only.

The Department of the Navy reported an increase of 511 civilian employees, from the January figure of 339,620 to the February figure of 340,131.

INSIDE CONTINENTAL UNITED STATES

Federal personnel within the United States increased 12,333 from the January total of 1,774,542 to the February total of 1,786,875. (See table I.)

Excluding the National Military Establishment, personnel inside the United States increased 9,061 from the January figure of 1,111,631 to the February figure of 1,120,692.

Total civilian employment within the United States for the National Military Establishment for February was 666,183, an increase of 3,272 over the January total of 662,911.

Department of the Army personnel within the United States increased 1,720 from the January figure of 254,078 to the February figure of 255,798.

The Department of the Air Forces increased civilian personnel within the United States by 903, from the January figure of 112,777 to the February figure of 113,680.

The Navy Department within the United States increased its civilian employment 568 from the January figure of 295,462 to the February figure of 296,030.

OUTSIDE CONTINENTAL UNITED STATES

Outside continental United States, Federal personnel decreased 401 from the January total of 225,969 to the February total of 225,568. (See table II.)

An increase of 557 was reported in overseas civilian personnel by the departments and agencies other than the National Military Establishment, from the January total of 54,504 to the February figure of 55,061.

Total overseas civilian employment for the National Military Establishment decreased 985 from the January figure of 171,465 to the February figure of 170,507.

The Department of the Army reported a decrease of 1,720 civilian employees overseas, from the January figure of 127,307 to the February figure of 126,406.

The Navy Department decreased its overseas employment 57, from the January figure of 44,158 to the February figure of 44,101.

INDUSTRIAL EMPLOYMENT

Total industrial employment during the month of February increased 575 from the January total of 550,556 to the February total of 551,131. (See table IV.)

The departments and agencies, exclusive of the National Military Establishment, increased their industrial employment 183 from the January figure of 20,102 to the February figure of 20,285.

The National Military Establishment increased its total industrial employment 392 from the January total of 530,454 to the February figure of 530,846.

The Department of the Army decreased its industrial employment 64 during the month of February; the Army increased 1,656 within continental United States while the overseas industrial employment for the Army decreased 1,720.

The Department of the Navy increased its industrial employment 456 from the January figure of 237,217 to the February figure of 237,673.

The term "industrial employees" as used by the committee refers to unskilled, semiskilled, skilled, and supervisory employees paid by the Federal Government who are working on construction projects such as airfields and roads, and in shipyards and arsenals. It does not include maintenance and custodial employees.
